Explanation

Box 1: Create a virtual network gateway and a local network gateway.

Azure VPN gateway. The VPN gateway service enables you to connect the VNet to the on-premises network through a VPN appliance. For more information, see Connect an on-premises network to a Microsoft Azure virtual network. The VPN gateway includes the following elements:

- * Virtual network gateway. A resource that provides a virtual VPN appliance for the VNet. It is responsible for routing traffic from the on-premises network to the VNet.
- * Local network gateway. An abstraction of the on-premises VPN appliance. Network traffic from the cloud application to the on-premises network is routed through this gateway.
- * Connection. The connection has properties that specify the connection type (IPSec) and the key shared with the on-premises VPN appliance to encrypt traffic.
- * Gateway subnet. The virtual network gateway is held in its own subnet, which is subject to various requirements, described in the Recommendations section below.

Box 2: Configure a site-to-site VPN connection

On premises create a site-to-site connection for the virtual network gateway and the local network gateway.

Scenario: Connect the New York office to VNet1 over the Internet by using an encrypted connection.

NEW QUESTION: 4

A database named TEST was created and two buffer pools named BP_GENERAL and BP_AUDITING were created as follows:

The majority of the database tables were created in table space TS1, while one large table was created in table space TS2. A set of triggers that would populate the table in table space TS2 each time changes were made to the database were then defined and the database was put into production. At first, ad-hoc queries performing random I/O against the table in table space TS2 ran fine, but performance has gotten worse as the table has gotten larger. What should be done to improve query performance?

- A. Replace the BP_AUDITING buffer pool with a block-based buffer pool.
- B. Increase the size of the BP_AUDITING buffer pool.
- C. Change the page size of the BP_AUDITING buffer pool to 16 or 32 K.

D. Reduce the size of the BP_AUDITING buffer pool.
